

ABOUT PSYCHOLOGY.

Mr. G. W. Atkinson's Fifth Talk on the Subject.

"ATTENTION" HIS SPECIAL TOPIC.

A Large and Interested Audience Finds itself well Repaid for Braving the Extremely Disagreeable Weather—An Instructive Discourse in Popular Form on an Important Science.

Last evening at Fourth street M. E. church G. W. Atkinson, Ph. D., delivered his fifth lecture on psychology before the Epworth League Training School. Notwithstanding the stormy night, the audience was good and was remarkably attentive. The theme of the lecture was "Attention," and the subject was handled in an intelligent and attractive manner.

music,—this latter is nonvoluntary attention. The one thing that influences the mind in nonvoluntary attention is the thing attended to, while in cases of voluntary attention there is impressed upon the mind, not only the thing attended to, but there is behind it the motive for attending to it.

WINTER ASSEHTIN HERSELF.

A Real Old Fashioned Snow Brings out the Sleights.

LMOST everybody had given up the idea of having any really wintery weather this winter. Saturday's attempt at it was merely a bluff on the part of the weather clerk and Sunday the sky was as fair as in May, and the temperature would not have been a degree to disagree to April. But yesterday, between 9 and 10 o'clock, a regular old fashioned snow set in, the flakes falling so fast that the ground was whitened in a few minutes.

No school could be held yesterday in Clay school, the steam pipes having frozen up, making it impossible to heat the building. The children made the most of the snow in their forced holiday.

THE WORK OF RELIEF.

Meeting of the Executive Committee—Few Donations Yesterday.

The executive committee on relief of the poor held a meeting at the store house on Market street last evening, at which there was a good attendance. Disappointment was expressed at the small amount of donations that have come in during the week.

The committee wishes to correct a misapprehension regarding the giving of money. The committee has never in any case given out money, its help being limited to coal, food and raiment.

The prospects are for an unusually busy day at the relief store to-day. The next meeting of the committee will take place Thursday evening at the relief store.

Yesterday a number of orders were filled by Manager Simpson, but they were mainly work orders.

The only donations of cash received yesterday by Treasurer P. B. Dobbins were as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Name, Amount. Total: $25.00

At the relief store, also, only two donations were received, these being one barrel of onions from Sam Hurtle and 100 loaves of bread from an unknown.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT

To the Engineer of a Dinky at the Wheeling Steel Plant.

IS PINIONED BY A RED-HOT INGOT

And the Flesh Slowly Roasted from his Bones, while his Clothing is also in Flames—An Awful Scene while Another Engine is Procured to Rescue him from his Unspeakable Torture.

Yesterday between 12 and 1 o'clock George Turner, a young man who runs the small engine at the Wheeling steel works, met with a horrible accident, which will doubtless result in his death. Among the other improvements made recently at that mill was a change in the carriages for red hot ingots.

Such was the size of the steel that another engine had to be procured before it could be raised. In the meantime the man was suffering the greatest agony, his clothing being on fire, increasing the torture. He repeatedly raised his head, and seeing the awful spectacle fell back overcome, while his friends, rendered almost frantic by the sight of the sufferings they could not alleviate, could only dash buckets of water to hinder as far as possible the burning of his clothes.

When the weight was dragged off he was burned to a blackened crisp from his knees to his chin. The leaders of the lower extremities were almost completely burned apart, while his chest and abdomen were less deeply burned, the most dangerous place being at his throat. With great forethought he had carefully avoided inhaling any of the poisonous flames.

He was carried to his home, which is but a short distance from the mill, where Dr. McDonald and Meighan attended him. The exact extent of his injuries could not be learned.

The scene at his home was indeed pitiful. He is the oldest son and his mother is a widow. Turner is about twenty-one years of age and is the main support of his mother, who seems almost unable to rally from the shock of her son's terrible misfortune. He was conscious at a late hour last night.

WORK AND SOCIETY.

The Two-Fold Strain on Delicate Women.

Unerring Symptoms of Nervous Weakness and Over-Fatigue—The Value of Paine's Celery Compound, the Remedy that Makes People Well.

In a recent number of the Queen, Mrs. Lynn Lynton writes, evidently from experience, of the dangers of overwork and too great nerve and mental pressure among delicate women. "Only the exceptionally strong," says Mrs. Lynton, "can stand the strain of the two-fold life of work and society."

and strength to this wonderful compound, first prescribed by Prof. Phelps of Dartmouth college, two women in the best society in Dexter, Mich. (whose portraits are given above), tell their friends of the virtue of the remedy. Mrs. Belle Rodman writes: "I can certainly speak in favor of Paine's celery compound. I have doctored more or less for about three years with our best doctor, and tried several remedies, with no benefit. Last summer I was advised to take Paine's celery compound. I have taken about three or four bottles, and my sister, Allie Bennett, has taken it, too, about the same number of bottles, during the same length of time."
